IMPORTANT NOTE ABOUT THIS YEAR'S RESULTS

This year we've updated the School Connectedness scale (now 5–25 instead of 4–20). Because of this, your scores may look a little different —don't be alarmed, this is expected and reflects the new scale, not a drop in pupils' connectedness.

Below is the total number of pupils in your sample and number of pupils in each demographic group (n). It is important to understand your sample and how much data you have collected in comparison to your schools population. This way you can gauge how representative your results are on the following page. As a rule of thumb SCWBS requires at least 30 participants in each group to be comparable to each other.

SCWBS and School Connectedness

The SCWBS is a validated wellbeing measure with a scoring range of 12-60 higher scores representing higher wellbeing.
To interpret this data, we can compare your school's pupil scores to the average pupil scores of all primary schools in the census. This is achieved by calculating +1 or -1 standard deviation from the mean to indicate what percentage of your school's pupils were 'below average', 'average', and 'above average' in comparison to all schools.

Below are your average SCWBS scores, shown across the demographic groups you collected data for. Please note that results for groups with only a small number of pupils may be less representative of your school and less reliable for comparison. On the SCWBS scale, differences of 1-2 points or more may indicate a meaningful change between groups.

You will also find your School Connectedness scores below. These are based on five questions about how connected pupils feel to your school. Scores range from 5 to 25, with higher values showing a stronger sense of connectedness.

Use This Table for Comparisons with 2024 School Connectedness Data

The chart below shows comparison scores based only on the original 4 school connectedness questions.
This allows a like-for-like comparison with previous years on the original 4-20 scale (this is due to an additional question being introduced this year).
